

The Dinosaur Adventure

By Michaela Dehning

Chapter 1

It's Morning Already!?

One day in the nice sunny morning, Jack and Annie heard a weird sound. "Arf arf!"

"Teddy!" shouted Annie.

"Annie shush," said Jack. "Mom and Dad are still sleeping."

"Ready for another adventure Jack?"

"Are you nuts? It's three in the morning. Go back to bed."

"Well, 'arf arf' means let's go."

"Ok," mumbled Jack. So they hurried out the door.

They got to the tree house. Teddy was jumping on the ladder. Annie grabbed Teddy and started up the rope ladder. "Come up Jack!"

"I'm coming! Yeesh!"

"Oh my gosh, that book shouldn't be open!" they both shouted. "We never used it."

"Ja-ack! Oh, he's sleeping. Oh, there's a book for him. I wish we could go there! Rock a bye baby on the tree top, when th..."

"Annie! What... What am I doing in a crib? There's the tree house," said Jack. "Where's Teddy?"

"He's in the tree house."

"Oh good. I thought he was in danger," said Jack.

"Let's just climb up already," said Annie.

Chapter 2

Ok Jack

"Oh, at least Teddy is up here," said Jack.

"Where did you think he was?" Annie said smartly.

"Aah, I don't know. Hey! You know how the dinosaur book isn't supposed to be open?"

"Yeah, so?"

"And I like dinosaurs, right?"

"Right," said Annie.

"So how about I choose what book to go to now?"

"Ok," said Annie.

Chapter 3

Wow!

"Choose right now!" said Annie.

"Ok, the dinosaur book!" said Jack.

"I knew it," whispered Annie to herself.

"Teddy, come here," Jack called.

Teddy came. Jack put Teddy in his backpack. "I wish we could go there!" Jack said. Then the treehouse started to spin! It spun faster and faster and faster! Then it was still, totally still.

Chapter 4

Help

"Hello, I can't see anything," said Annie.

"Arf arf!"

"Oh Teddy, weren't you supposed to be in Jack's backpack?"

"Help!"

Chapter 5

Oh No!

"Jack! Where are you?"

"I'm not sure. I have my backpack, I know that."

"Oh, good," said Annie. "Jack, I have an idea. Take out your flashlight from your backpack."

"But I think I forgot it at our house."

"Just check your backpack, quick!" said Annie.

"Found it!"

"Good," shouted Annie. "Now try to turn it on."

"The batteries are out. But I think I brought some. They're in the front pocket. Got 'em."

Jack quickly turned on the flashlight. Then Jack figured out he was sitting right on a T-Rex's eggs! On accident he even broke one!

Chapter 6

The Rescue

Suddenly, they both felt the ground vibrating. They saw a big T-Rex. It looked pretty hungry and mad. Annie shouted, "Throw the flashlight to me."

Everything was vibrating near Jack, but everything was also very dark. But where Annie was it was very light. So the T-Rex couldn't see anything- not the broken egg or Jack. But the T-Rex could see Annie.

Then Annie saw the T-Rex looking straight at her. She was scared, but she knew that she had to do something. She got a great idea. She saw a Pterodactyl.

She started running toward it. Then she noticed it wasn't just any Pterodactyl, it was the one that saved Jack in the first adventure they ever had. So she knew that the Pterodactyl would save her this time.

Annie told the Pterodactyl, "Go fly to the T-Rex's nest, grab Jack, and land us in a safe place." The pterodactyl shook its head yes. Annie jumped on the pterodactyl's back and they took off.

The T-Rex was pretty mad about that. But Annie was really happy. Finally, they got Jack and Jack said, "How can you talk to this Pterodactyl? I thought you could only talk to the one we rode the first time we ever had an adventure.

Then Annie said, "Well, I figured out this was the first book we went in. We've gone back in. And that's the same T-Rex.

The Pterodactyl landed right beside the tree house. Jack and Annie got off. Then they asked, "Where's Teddy?"

Teddy came out of a bush and said, "Arf arf." But Annie told Jack that he really said, "This was the best adventure I've ever had."

Chapter 7

Back Again

They all climbed up the rope ladder, Annie first, then Jack, carrying Teddy. They found the Pennsylvania book and went back to their house. They opened the door to their house.

They looked back to wave bye to Teddy. But, again, he disappeared. "Like always," said Jack. Then they both walked in, went to their rooms, and went right back to bed, like nothing even happened.
